Joan Tarragó

Rug
Hand Tufted
Ø200 cm
Unique piece

The idea was to commission Joan Tarragó to illustrate a handwoven rug using his own and characteristic language: the essence of movement expressed through the intricate lines, the artistic expression of a mental flow, the dichotomy between organic and technological, urban and nature, tradition and modernity.

Joan Tarragó (1984)

The constant exploration of an exotic graphic language through travel and research is the backbone of the tireless work by Joan Tarragó. A Barcelona native, his academic and professional artistic background embraces illustration, graphic design and urban art, giving a very eclectic and meticulous approach to contemporary art. For him, illustration is no longer bound by a flat format but often explores three dimensions.

His artistic style is nourished by ancient symbolism, surf label influences and a very cutting edge graphic language, which all together has been very successful in the artistic scene in many countries like USA, Indonesia, Japan, France or Germany.
